A PATRIOTIC ADDRESS.

Thirteenth Annual Encampment of the P. O. S. A. at Washington.

The Eloquent and Patriotic Address of President Smith.

Some Societies Not in Harmony with American Principles.

The Admission of an Injurious Foreign Element Condemned.

P. O. S. A. in Convention

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The thirteenth annual national camp of the Patriotic Order Sons of America began its session this morning. President Smith's annual address dwelt upon the necessity of committing to Americans the care and preservation of American principles and institutions. The control of public schools should be a matter of the deepest concern. The naturalization law he denounced as a farce and a fraud by means of which in seventeen states and four territories he asserted it is possible to entirely overthrow the congressional act against alien lands. The following sentiments upon subjects now foremost in the public mind were loudly applauded.

"A few more Haymarket riots and Cronin murders instigated by organized bodies of foreigners who have been permitted to become citizens of this free America and who have shown their gratitude by sending messengers loaded with dynamite back to their native country for the purpose of destroying innocent people and who have foully murdered their neighbors when they fail to carry out their hellish plans, and there will not be in our western country lamp posts, telegraph and telephone poles enough to hang the miscreants to. I ask you is there room in this country for societies like the Clan na Gael that are out in harmony with and are injurious to American institutions; that are dangerous to American order; disloyal to American government, destructive to American principles, repugnant to American ideas and disgusting to all Americans who have any sense of justice, any regard for consistency and any respect for the sanctity of human life. Or have we room for societies whose officers contract with men to commit wholesale murder and then betray their pals that they themselves may have more money to spend for their own personal benefits. One-third of our entire population is of foreign birth or parentage. Alien flags and foreign emblems float from our public buildings, embellish our streets and head the processions of our people. We are cursed with all kinds of foreign, non-American societies. Vast un-American organizations are held together by issues of foreign birth for the purpose of perpetuating foreign sentiments and corrupting the ideals of our fathers. Anarchy and the destruction of all laws are openly advocated and the right to enforce the discipline and principles of some of these orders is claimed by secret oaths, even to the extent of taking human life."

Chicago Jury.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The Cronin grand jury came into court to day and reported that W. E. Bell, of the Western Union Telegraph company, had refused to disclose the contents of certain dispatches deemed necessary for the investigation. The attorney for the Western Union explained that this refusal was merely formal to fulfill the requirements of the law. An order was then entered upon the records of the court directing the witness under pain of contempt and commitment to jail to produce any and all messages, cablegrams or copies thereof in the Chicago office passing between Alexander Sullivan, Dan Coughlin, P. O. Sullivan, John J. Mahoney and Charles McDonald whether under their true names or any alias, or between either of these men and any other person or persons since the first of March last.

Fifteen or twenty witnesses were before the jury this afternoon but not much information was obtained from them. Rev. Father Dorney was called and asked to give the particulars of P. W. Dunn's charge of embezzlement against Alexander Sullivan and his attorneys and the subsequent investigation of this charge by a committee of the principals. Father Dorney related the circumstances of these charges and stated that only after a full investigation of the affairs of Sullivan and the amount of his annual income had he pronounced Dunn's charges groundless. The reverend gentleman was also questioned closely regarding his knowledge of Clan na Gael affairs but failed to disclose any particular knowledge of their workings.

Chief of Police Hubbard, in speaking of the arrest of Martin Burke in Winnipeg for complicity in the Cronin murder, said this morning that he had a good deal more evidence against Burke than had been published. He said there was not a shadow of doubt in his mind that Burke helped to kill Dr. Cronin. The police do not say where this information comes from but it is stated that a friend of Burke has "squealed" and will accompany an officer with requisition papers to Winnipeg.

The Constellation Aground.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—A dispatch from New York says that the United States [illegible] Constellation is aground one mile inside of Cape Henry with the naval cadets from Annapolis aboard. A northeast storm prevails and the atmosphere is thick. Assistance has gone to her relief.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Later intelligence from the Constellation at 11 30 to night is to the effect that she is 300 yards from the shore and drifting in. The captain of the life saving station near Cape Henry with a crew has gotten a line [illegible] ship and has hauled out a hawser hoping though no one has gotten ashore as yet. The wind which was heavy at the time the ship went ashore has since quieted down some and it may be that the Constellation may not go to pieces though there is not much chance that she will be saved. There are 300 people aboard the Constellation.

Benefit of Johnstown Sufferers.

CHICAGO, June 18.—An athletic entertainment was given to night by battery "B" for the benefit of the Johnstown sufferers under the management of Parson Davies. One of the features was a bout between Sailor Brown and a local pugilist, Jim Duffy. It was a vicious fight and was given to Brown in the fourth round on a foul. The entertainment netted $2,000.

Chandler Chosen.

CONCORD, N. H., June 18.—The senate and house in separate session to day chose W. E. Chandler United States senator.

Parnell's Appeal Dismissed.

LONDON, June 18.—Parnell's appeal against a postponement of his libel suit against the Times was dismissed to day.

U. S. Attorney Resigns.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The attorney general has received the resignation of George S. Peters, United States attorney for Utah.

A. O. U. W. Convention.

OMAHA, June 18.—The supreme lodge A. O. U. W. convened here to day. Delegates are present from all parts of the United States.

Fairchild Appointed.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Lucius Fairchild, ex commander in chief of the Grand Army, has been appointed a member of the Sioux commission.

Discussing the Panama Bill.

PARIS, June 18.—The committee of the chamber of deputies to which the government's Panama canal relief bill was referred is still discussing the measure. Seven members favor the bill and four want more time in which to examine it.

Fugitive from Justice.

BOSTON, June 18.—The Pinkerton agency arrested John B. Kinney to day as a fugitive from justice. Kinney is wanted at San Francisco on a charge of embezzling $4500 from the Wells Fargo Express company.

Howard Found Guilty.

NEW YORK, June 18.—The jury in the case of Wm. E. Howard, charged with obtaining $6,500 from the defunct Electric Sugar company, has found the defendant guilty of grand larceny in the first degree as charged in the indictment.

Gunnison to Be Used.

DENVER, Colo., June 18.—The board of capitol managers which meets on Thursday will decide to build the outside walls of the state capitol building of Gunnison granite. The board has been undecided for some time whether to select the Georgetown or Gunnison granite but mostly decided upon the latter.

Severe Storm in Cuba.

HAVANA, June 18.—One of the most severe rain storms ever experienced on this island occurred on last Sunday. The rain came down in such volumes that several of the streets quickly became roaring torrents, and the walks were undermined and houses collapsed, but no loss of life by the storm has been reported.

Fight Today Between Champions.

DENVER, June 18.—A Salt Lake special says: W. H. Sullivan, Harry Hosner and Wm. Wood, three young men, while sailing on the Great Salt Lake yesterday, were caught in a gale and capsized and have not been heard from since. It is believed all are drowned. The lake is being searched.

Burke Suspected.

WINNIPEG, June 18.—Burke, the Cronin suspect who was arrested here was arraigned in the police court this morning. The chief of police stated that he was holding the prisoner on the strength of telegrams from the Chicago authorities, charging him with being a principal in the Cronin murder. The police magistrate remanded him until Sunday.

Shot Her Assailant.

SAUSIER, Miss., June 18.—John Williams was shot and fatally wounded on Sunday at Emroy church by Mrs. Hattie Campbell. The shooting occurred immediately after the religious services. Williams died the following morning. The provocation was a charge by Williams that he had criminal intercourse with Mrs. Campbell upon which statement a bill for divorce is pending.

Mining Engineers.

DENVER, June 18.—The fifty-fourth annual convention of the American Institute of Mining Engineers will convene here to-morrow. There are now nearly two hundred delegates in the city. The convention will be in session in Denver on Wednesday and Thursday. An excursion will then be taken to the various mining camps of the state and the third meeting will be held in Aspen the last of the week.

Lives by the Storm.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 18.—A destructive wind storm swept over Peru, Indiana, this afternoon, doing great damage. Fences, telegraph and telephone poles were leveled and many dwellings injured. Several freight cars standing on the Lake Erie and Western tracks were caught by the wind and pushed with great force through the walls of the repairing shops. The total loss will be many thousands of dollars.

The Game Drills Game.

LEADVILLE, June 18.—Leadville got on to Mann's pitching in the fifth inning to day and scored ten runs. It took ten innings for Leadville to win the game, the first they have won from Aspen. Mann and Ward were the battery for Aspen, and Gerrity and Wise for Leadville. The following is the Denver Wins a Game.

DENVER, June 18.—The Denver team celebrated their return home by beating the Des Moines badly to day. Smith and White of the Denver club were still unable to play, consequently Denver had a patched up infield. Treadway has become a great favorite and if Dave Rowe will get some more of his kind Denver will make a good showing in the race. Fagan was at his best and kept his old chums down to four hits, while Alexander was hit for fifteen bases. Hart umpired and gave good satisfaction, being [illegible] and honest in his decisions and for that reason his mistakes were overlooked. The following is the Appointments.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The president made the following appointments to day:

Royal A. Johnson, surveyor general of Arizona.

The following were appointed post masters:

John Corcoran, Denver, Colo.
John F. Rick, Ouray, Colo.
Emerie R. Leonard, Boise City, Idaho.
Benj. S. Burroughs, Pendleton, Ore.
Geo. C. Folger, Jackson, Cal.
Geo. N. Platte, Vacaville, Cal.

PENNSYLVANIA'S VETO.

An Overwhelming Majority Against Prohibition.

Snowed Under by a Majority of Many Thousands.

Women Enthusiasts Working for the Amendment.

Prohibition Defeated.

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.—Returns from forty four out of sixty seven counties show a majority against the prohibition amendment of 109,454. Full returns from the whole state will probably raise the figures to nearly 200,000. The weather has been pleasant throughout the state and the vote cast has been generally heavy.

In this city there has been a notable absence of women from the polls. In some portions of the city the prohibition folks utilized the Sunday school children to distribute cold water tickets. The city has given a heavy majority against the amendment.

PITTSBURG, June 18.—To day's election was never equalled for strange sights and sounds. The streets were filled all day with amused crowds watching the brass bands of the anti-prohibitionists and the glee clubs of the prohibitionists. Everyone seemed in a good humor and the election was freer from fights than any election before known. The vote in Allegheny county is without precedent for a special election and rivals the vote at the annual election. The temperance women did good work at the polls, serving the voters with ice water, butter milk and sandwiches. The indications are that the majority against the amendment in Allegheny county is large.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 18.—The returns received in this city up to midnight show an overwhelming majority against the prohibitory amendment. It is thought that the majority will reach 150,000.

Pueblo Wins.

PUEBLO, June 18.—Up to to-day the Pueblo Peoples had won nine straight games but the Springs boys knocked their eyes out to-day. Hendricks and Wilson were the Springs battery and Lockhaugh and Stevens for Pueblo.

Wrecked by a Train.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 18.—A railroad wreck, causing the death of two men and injury to about one hundred others, occurred at the Pratt mines this morning on the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company's track that leads from town out to Pratt No. 3.

Every morning a train is run from the company's office in town out to Pratt to accommodate the miners and others who work at the mines. The train takes on men along the line at usually every house and siding, and before it reaches the mines it usually has two or three hundred people on board.

This morning the train consisted of three passenger cars, several ore cars and one or two cattle cars. The engine was attached to the end of the train and was pushing the cars forward. While running at the rate of ten miles an hour the train struck a cow lying on the track and six cars were hurled down an embankment. Walter Bearty and Henry McCoy, carpenters, were killed and nearly one hundred injured, some of them having limbs broken. None of the injured will die.

Civil Government for Indian Towns.

JOHNSTOWN, June 18.—The first effort looking to the establishment of a civil government here was made this afternoon when General Hastings met the few remaining members of the council and reorganized that body. President Kennedy presided at the meeting and after the reorganization it was decided to allow the business men to build temporary structures on the two public parks of the place. After the meeting General Hastings offered to withdraw the troops at once, but the council asked that they be allowed to remain here for a week longer when it is thought that the citizens can assume charge.

Occasionally a corpse is found buried in the debris and rubbish throughout the town, but the profile spot is the mass of wreckage above the railroad bridge. Eleven bodies were blown up there to day. Prohibition was carried here to-day by a majority of three votes. The votes cast were 446 for and 443 against the amendment.

The guard at Camp Hastings, near the Prospect Hill burying ground, reports to day that they are having trouble with dogs that are constantly disturbing the dead interred in that cemetery. Over one hundred dogs were driven from the place last night and several of them were killed. The hastily dug graves there are shallow and the dogs have been uncovering and devouring the bodies.

France's Naval Improvements.

PARIS, June 18.—In the chamber of deputies to-day, Riche moved that the house grant a credit of 915,000 francs to complete the ironclads now in course of construction. Rear Admiral [illegible] of the marine replied that the sums mentioned would not be sufficient for the work. He said that a serious effort would be necessary in order to bring France's naval strength up to the proper standard. The government, he said, would soon ask a credit of 50,000,000 or 60,000,000 francs for naval improvements.

The Cabinet.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The Star this evening says: It is understood that Secretary Blaine has offered the appointment to succeed Minister Denby as minister to China to Admiral Shufeldt (retired). The admiral, while not declining the offer, has asked time to consider the matter, hesitating on account of the long [illegible] of his present office, that [illegible] he does not accept and [illegible] to the very doubtful honor of being one of the numerous commissioners [illegible] of for the mission.

Drowned at New York.

NEW YORK, June 18.—The body of a young lady was found floating in the North river near Randall's Island yesterday. It was identified as that of Lizzie Hutchinson, son of L. H. Hutchinson, of Wealthy Hickory Mountain, Jackson county, Michigan. It is supposed that the lady had been visiting friends in this city and while passing over the Lakes. Her friends had been informed during the winter with her mother.

Change in the Rules.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Effort will be made to day to secure the civil service rules so as to do away with the requirement that a person must be a legal voter in the district in which he is to be appointed to office. The change was made upon the recommendation of the civil service commission.

Weather Indications.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18.

Indications for twenty four hours commencing Wednesday, June 19:

For Colorado—Fair, cooler, northwesterly winds.

Who Killed Hastings?

Mr. J. C. Denney of Fountain was in the city yesterday on business matters connected with the district court. Mr. Denney states that the people of Fountain are still of the opinion that the slayers of Hastings, the Santa Fe operator, are confined in the El Paso county jail and are known as the Florissant robbers. He says that they will be indicted by the grand jury for the crime upon evidence furnished by the citizens of Fountain and the chief detective of the Santa Fe system. Evidence, according to Mr. Denney, is gradually developing which links the men with the crime, and more than twenty five witnesses will be called to show that they came directly from El Moro to Fountain, and after committing the deed went to Canon City. It was their intention in coming to Fountain to rob the Santa Fe express. Thompson, the robber who was killed, came to Fountain the day previous and laid out the programme, selecting the route of escape. The party arrived and hitched their horses under the bridge near the depot. They were prevented from robbing the train by the fact that so many persons were about the depot until after train time. When at last the way was clear and Hastings alone, the train had gone, and it was decided to hold him up. The shooting was an afterthought, and why it was done is to Mr. Denney a mystery. He accounts for the fact that there were no tracks leading from the depot by the theory that the two men who committed the robbery walked the rails to the bridge by holding a rifle between them. Mr. Denney feels confident that they can be convicted.

District Court.

In the district court yesterday dates for the trial of cases were fixed as follows: Nichols vs Midland railroad, June 24th; Donovan vs Colorado Springs, June 25th; Chandler vs State Insurance Co., June 26th; Hyde vs Redmon, June 29th; Nevins vs Colorado Springs, July 24th. Judge Decker will come to the city on that date to try the case. Defendant was given leave to file a cross complaint within three days, and the costs were ordered taxed to defendant.

City Attorney Pelty, in the afternoon, asked to be allowed to file an amended cross complaint in the Colorado Springs-Manitou water suit, but was overruled.

A large part of the afternoon was taken up with the trial of the case of the Bi[illegible] or Dairy company vs Eugene Roberts. When about half through the plaintiff's attorney asked that the case be continued. This was agreed upon, the jury dismissed and the case continued until the next term. During the day Juryman Frank Waters was excused for the term.

I. T. P. Visitors.

President E. T. Plank, Second Vice President Columbus Hall and Secretary Treasurer Wm. S. McCleery, of the International Typographical union arrived in the city yesterday. They are the officials appointed by the International to sign the papers deeding the eighty acres of land east of the city to that body for the printers home. The papers were not ready for the parties to sign yesterday, and when prepared will be sent to them. Mr. Hall left on the Santa Fe in the afternoon for his home in Washington, while the other two gentlemen returned to Denver.

While in the city they were guests of the officers of the board of trade, and visited the site of the proposed home. All were greatly pleased as this was the first time they had had an opportunity to look at it.

Trades Carnival.

The long talked of Trades Carnival was given at the First M. E. church last night, and was a great success. A [illegible] stage had been erected, and upon it was executed a number of fine drills by the young ladies and little girls of the Sunday school. The first drill was by a company of about twenty young ladies dressed in fancy costumes furnished by the various tradesmen of the city advertising their business. The young ladies carried long tubes of tin, with which they executed the manual of arms. The second drill was by a company of young misses dressed in pink and white, and carrying tambourines, with which they kept time while singing. The third and last drill was by little girls who carried dolls. They sang a lullaby song bidding the audience good night. During the evening a fine musical programme was carried out, including a vocal solo by Miss Irene Barnes, a duet by Mrs. R. R. Taylor and Mrs. Cinq Mars, and instrumental music by Professors Bach and Seymour. A very good sized audience witnessed the performance.

W. [illegible] STRICKLER, Editor of the GAZETTE

The results achieved by the American commissioners to the Samoan conference can hardly fail to give general satisfaction to Americans. So far as the agreement has been made public it would seem that the conference has adopted substantially all the contentions of the United States.

Hon. Henry D. McHenry, member of the democratic national committee from Kentucky, says that the democratic office holders of his state have been treated fairly by the republican administration and have had nothing to complain of so far. When an administration has succeeded in placing Kentucky democrats it has but little left to wish for.

The Glenwood Springs Republican says:

The [illegible] of the I[illegible] Typographical union to which was referred the question of a site for the new [illegible] and the printers unanimously voted that the best offer [illegible] was the most desirable. The [illegible] given are that the land itself is free. Onward that Colorado displays to the [illegible] health seeker in the way for fuming residents. The unusual [illegible] gifts rendered the [illegible] of Glenwood Springs, so the writer is [illegible] to the "Spring" [illegible] is notable, as the land [illegible] will be a good [illegible] to be a costly [illegible] and will be a [illegible] to the [illegible] of the city.

There is considerable difference of opinion as to the ability of the Hon. Calvin S. Brice to fully fill the position of chairman of the democratic national committee, to which he was lately elected. Not a few democrats are quick to lay much of the blame of their recent national defeat on the shoulders of the Ohio millionaire, and regret that he is in a position to again mismanage the party affairs, while others feel that he did not have a fair chance in the last campaign, and are confident that he will distinguish himself in the future. This difference of opinion, however, is unimportant. Colonel Brice is about as well qualified to lead his party to defeat as anyone in it.

"The Temperance Question in India," a matter which is now before the British parliament, will be treated by Bishop Hurst, of the Methodist church, in the July Century. It is stated that the intoxicating liquor for the natives of India by the government is called by them "Apka Shrab," or "Government Water," and that it is supplied at the very reasonable rate of four cents a bottle. The Rev. J. M. Buckley, D. D., editor of the Christian Advocate, will contribute a paper on "Trances, Visions and Apparitions." Dr. Buckley takes the materialistic view of all these [illegible] phenomena. Winchester Cathedral will be described by Mrs. van Rensselaer in the same number, with fifteen of Joseph Pennell's illustrations. The [illegible] stories will be contributed by Thomas A. Janvier, Edward Bellamy and T. W. Higginson.

The New York Sun says that Governor Hill is ready and anxious to sign a ballot reform bill which is practicable. No doubt this is true but it is also true that Governor Hill regards as a practical bill is one which is not worth praying. It would not be of the smallest value in ending the corrupt practices now so common at elections. These corrupt practices have made it possible for men as Hill to be governors of great states and to hold other positions of trust and it is not to be expected that a man will sign a bill which will ruin his political future any quicker than he will cut his own throat. The legislature of New York will only waste valuable time in trying to pass a ballot reform bill which will meet the approval of Governor Hill and at the same time accomplish any good results.

The Rev. A. R. Howbert, uncle of Hon. Irving Howbert, has published a book entitled "Reminiscences of the War." The introduction is written by the Hon. William Lawrence, who for many years was comptroller of currency, and is an able exposition of the [illegible] that brought on the war. This little book gives the experience of Mr. Howbert, who was chaplain of the 86th Ohio. Besides this, he gives a chronicle each year of the various battles and skirmishes that occurred during the war, giving the number engaged and the loss on each side, and such other details as are important. In the end of the book is a brief history of the health resorts in the army. The volume also contains a great deal of statistical information chronologically arranged. The information of a small library is condensed in this book, and it will prove a very valuable compendium for many of our readers. The books [illegible] with a very elegant and impressive [illegible] to the young men of America.

To the Editor of the Gazette:

I see there is a proposition or petition before the council for another bridge over Shook's run. For Heaven's sake what is there the other side of Shook's run that requires so many bridges over it. There are four or five now and [illegible] built, while the Monument, a stream that [illegible] usually has water running in it, has but two and they are a mile apart. [illegible] half of one of them is [illegible] by the street car company. I will venture to say that there is more [illegible] on the Huerfano street bridge over the Monument in a day than there is over all the bridges over Shook's run in three days. I do not own a dollar's worth of property west of the Monument, but I like to see a little fairness in the expenditure of the public money. It looks as though the people on the other side of the Monument were not making their influence felt for the council evidently would not entertain any favor one part of the city as against the other.

CITIZEN

RUSSIA'S GREAT FLOOD.

[illegible] When the Neva Overflowed Its Banks

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 18.—The flood that overwhelmed St. Petersburg was not quite so terribly [illegible] as this Conemaugh one, but it was fully as destructive, and to this day you may see on many of the great Russian public buildings a red line, with the date "7th November, 1824," marking the height of the water on that fatal morning. For three days previous the waters of the Neva, swollen high by a sudden thaw, had been driven back by the furious west wind that was blowing with ever increasing violence up the Gulf of Finland; and as the river rose, the alarm guns kept booming through the howling storm all night long from the citadel, while through the darkness the red glare of signal lanterns lit up every watch tower. A few took fright and fled with what property they could save, but the greater number stayed and met their doom.

Just at daybreak on the morning of the fatal 7th there those houses looked down upon the great open space of the Admiralty plain (which flanks the river) were awakened by a hollow rumbling like distant thunder, and soon the solid ground below them melted into a sea of heaving, glittering, foaming [illegible], on which wagons, barges, cranks, scurry boxes, bundles of hay and shattered timbers were whirled along like straws, together with dead [illegible] men and oxen, whose cries [illegible] dismally the universal uproar. Then the three great canals burst their banks and on went the flood in one mighty wave through every street and lane, till fully two-thirds of the city was under water.

And now the tragedy began in earnest. As the timber houses along the river bank began to shake beneath the battering strokes of the water, the [illegible] in mates tried to clamber to the roof, usually failing in the attempt and falling headlong into the raging waters below. Children sank before the eyes of their mothers, wives before the eyes of their husbands. Many of the poor wretches in the madness of their terror, fought savagely for a few inches of foothold till they were [illegible] together. Higher and higher rose the flood, houses after houses [illegible] crashing down, and the shrieks of those who were perishing became [illegible] the roar of wind and water. And still the alarm bells pealed and the alarm guns boomed in the darkness, as if calling in vain for the help that none could give.

But all at once a large boat was seen to come gliding around the corner of the Veniaminova [illegible] (Assumption street), rowed by eight strong men, and [illegible] by the Czar Alexander, himself. Just at that moment a huge [illegible] of wood work, torn from some fallen house, bore right down upon the boat. A collision would have been certain death to all; but the czar saw that there were two children clinging to the drifting mass, and with one turn of the tiller he brought the boat alongside, and, at the risk of his own life, snatched the poor little waifs from destruction. Then, taking them on his knee, and wrapping his gold lined cloak tenderly around them, he went heavely on into the jaws of death.

Several other [illegible] were at work and the men who guided them, rowing close to the [illegible] houses, shouted to the people at the windows and on the roofs to let themselves down. But so utterly unnerved were the poor creatures by mortal terror that many of them, instead of lowering their lives quietly into the hands of those who were ready to receive them, leaped headlong into the raging waters and thus [illegible] with safety actually within their grasp. One struggling woman was clutched by a brave fellow in the bow of one of the boats but ere he could drag her in the white by which he held her gave way and she sank forever. A number of people who had taken refuge on a wooden roof were rescued by a boat's crew, who ran alongside and were just beginning to help them to lower themselves down, when the whole roof fell in with a horrible crash, overwhelming the rescuers and the rescued in one common ruin.

But the horror was not at its height even now. With the coming of night came a bitter north wind and a frost of unprecedented severity, which completed the work that the flood had begun. Many who had escaped the waters died by the cold of that fearful night, and when morning dawned upon that wild scene scores of dead men were drifting through the dead city on broken planks or [illegible] heaps, with their livid faces and sightless eyes turned blindly upward to the cold and [illegible] of the wintry sunrise.

A few figures were seen clinging to the [illegible] along the front of the Admiralty building and the passing [illegible] hailed them, but there was no reply. The boats were hastily run thither, and they were told to leap in, but not one of them spoke or moved; they were all frozen corpses. Nearly five hundred of these ghastly fruits were gathered from the [illegible] of the various boulevards when the flood went down, and in many cases the stiffened fingers that still clutched the lamps broke off like those of a statue!

How many lives were lost during that fearful day and night (which still stands alone in the memory of the Russian people like the burning of Moscow) can never be known now, but, apart from the multitude that were destroyed in the capital itself, hundreds upon hundreds must have perished in Cronstadt and the low flat [illegible] at the mouth of the river. Countless bodies were whirled away by the rushing current of the Neva, to be found far out to sea by shuddering fishermen many days later; and judging of the total havoc by the very small part of it which can be accurately reckoned, the few hours more have swept away many thousands of human lives.

ASPIRANTS TO OFFICE.

HOW THE CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS ARE CONDUCTED.

Many Are Called but Few Are Chosen—From the Most Hopeless Ventures for Government Jobs Make Frantic Efforts to [illegible]

[illegible]

WASHINGTON, June 14. It would not be easy to find in the capital a more interesting scene than that presented in the room of the civil service commission on a special examination day. Applicants for government employment are going through what is commonly known as the hopper. The casual visitor might well think the building was used for a college. Four or five rooms are in use, and each is fitted up like the average country school house with rude desks, a few maps on the wall, a rostrum for the teachers or principals. But what a queer lot of pupils! They are of all ages, from 20 up to four score. Many have black skins, gray hairs are copiously mixed with shining young faces, and two thirds of the whole number are women. Over next the wall sits an old colored man who was once a state officer in the south. Chief Examiner Webster says the old fellow has been here six or eight times, always failing to pass, but never willing to give up.

He is nearly always the last person to leave the examination room, fearing that if he departs earlier his fellow candidates will discover that he has failed and jibe him. Black and ignorant though he is, he appears to be very proud. Another old man, white, and with a face that is finely molded, is pointed out as one who, twenty years ago, was rich and almost famous, successful in politics and thought to be a future senator of the United States. Now he is living chiefly on hope, and a delusive one at that, for the chances are that he will fail to pass the examination. Nothing is more pathetic than the efforts of these old men and women—for old women are also to be found here—to compete with younger and fresher minds in the race for employment, trying in many cases again and again after a failure which must have brought them bitter disappointment and humiliation. Among these unfortunates may be found many who have enjoyed great prosperity, and who have climbed nearly to the top round of the ladder. What stories of humbled pride and breaking hearts this examination hopper has ground out!

WILLIAM H. WEBSTER.

A glance about the room shows so many interesting characters that one cannot stop to examine them. In one of the rooms where tables have been improvised with boards, youth and age sit side by side in the persons of a patriarch whose face is like that of Father Time himself and a girl who declares she is 20 but whose face and form indicate no more than sixteen. It is doubtful if ever before in a room containing eighty persons fully two-thirds of them women, there were not more than one or two comely faces. The women are the women who have to struggle for bread alone, or as helpers in needy families. Many of them wear independence and self reliance in their plain faces, few are given to compliance in dress, fully one-half wear eyeglasses or spectacles. Incidentally the thought comes that there are the women—for the most part 30 or more in years—who have been left on the shoals of the matrimonial sea. It is the pretty woman who marries early and gets somebody to work for her. The plain woman remains single, and after struggling along as servant, store clerk or ministrant, concludes to brighten up her arithmetic, orthography and penmanship, in the process of passing through the mill and finding a snug berth at a thousand a year, hours 9 to 4, in the service of dear old Uncle Sam.

Though here and there is one who looks like a tramp from the streets, there must be worthy, respectable men and women, or how has not each of them been endorsed by three well known citizens of his town? To get in here they are required to file formal applications and credentials of character, but their politics is never inquired for. Many of these candidates are from distant cities, which means expense incurred on what is at best but little better than a lottery. Judging by the results of former examinations, of the 400 aspirants here in Hawaii with arithmetic and orthography, only 300 will pass muster with a record of 65 per cent. or better, and of the 300 who feel called only fifteen will be chosen to enter upon the duties of the departments as clerks on the government pay roll. Vacancies are few and far between, and already there is a long list of eligibles which comes up whenever a vacancy occurs. Some have waited long, and perhaps patiently for the appointments that never come. Those who fail to pass [illegible] ment within a year, must also come back and go around once more through the improving hopper. When the list of eligibles is made up the candidates showing the highest average are placed at the head and experience shows that only those whose score reaches have to be needed expect to profit for the appointments. Therefore the struggle is for a rating of 95, and thus in perfect [illegible] knitting of brows, the arduous concentration of thought, the throwing off of self consciousness every where apparent.

YOUTH AND AGE.

At 9 o'clock in the morning the pupils arrive. Each must bring his own ink, pen and pencils. In tickets assigned a desk and a number. For the purpose of this examination, names and identity are merged into a mere numerical designation. The chief examiner or one of his assistants informs the class that they must hold no conversation or communication, that their papers must be written in ink, and that no competitor is to leave his seat before the examination blank. Then the mill is started in motion. Blanks are passed out to the class, and these each one must mark with his number.

The examiner reads about 250 words of extract from some book or speech for the information of the class, and records it in groups of words at a rate of not less than fifteen nor more than twenty-five words a minute. As he reads every candidate follows him as closely as he can with pen. This is deemed an important exercise, as it shows not only penmanship but ability to take from dictation while of these passing all cases of examination during the first [illegible] the [illegible] was [illegible] of the appointments made, 1 in 6 was [illegible] of a female. This notwithstanding the protestations of many department chiefs and other officials against women clerks, and the opinion prevailing in their behalf [illegible] In a contest of the sexes it is the [illegible] pushing [illegible] WALTER WELLMAN.

construction of language and punctuation. Though these lessons are plainly given out, very rarely, [illegible] ed, is a candidate for [illegible] who will succeed in catching every word. This done, twenty words are given out, with their definitions, as a test in orthography. Then follow questions and problems in arithmetic, [illegible] of the English language, letter writing, elements of history, geography and government of the United States.

As we look the old man who resembles Father Time is struggling with this:

Add $\frac{4}{5}$ of 1.236 to $\frac{7}{18}$ of 1.008, and from the sum take $\frac{2}{3}$ of .164.

The discouraged old man, having finally succeeded in ascertaining the cost of a tract of land 2¼ miles wide by 8¼ miles long, at $1.25½ per acre, is now relapsing from exhaustion into [illegible] over the following:

The [illegible] of the [illegible] on hand at the end of the fiscal year 1885 [illegible] at 158,217, and [illegible] the next fiscal year [illegible] (1). The price of the paper per [illegible] and fractions of a cent in [illegible] terms, and (2) the value of the stock on hand at the end of the year 1886.

The comeliest young woman in the room is bothering her pretty but rather empty head over a blank which contains a dozen such conundrums as:

A DIFFICULT PROBLEM.

State in what [illegible] the Fifteen Amendment, Declaration of Independence, Mexican war, nullification of South Carolina, War of 1812, Emancipation Proclamation.

While are the [illegible] battle fields. State in what war each battle was fought: Long Island, Chippewa, Queenstown, Bennington and Lundy's Lane.

While the eager candidates are struggling with these questions blanks whose contents, of course, they had no knowledge of till they sat down here, two or three bright eyed young men are walking about among the desks. One of the rules of the commission is that a candidate shall not have on his desk a scrap of written or printed paper—nothing but his blanks and pencil tablets. Now and then an article is confiscated by these lynx eyed watchers, and near the chief examiner's desk is piled high with reference books, little hand books and other surreptitious aids to memory. There are several American almanacs, a half dozen pocket statistical compilations, an assortment of [illegible] and [illegible] of a large sheet of writing paper with a perfect encyclopedia of dates of events, historical references, etc., and with the confusion of this [illegible] disappear probably all his hopes of success.

THE SCHOOL ROOM.

No wonder the women are largely in majority in these close rooms. It is the women who succeeds. One-third of the males fail to reach the coveted 65, against only one-sixth of the females. The women rank higher in the scale of excellence, too, as is shown by the fact that [illegible] greatest glory is not in never falling but rising every time we fall.—Conf

SAN FRANCISCO'S WAYS.

The Prevalence of Gambling Living Expenses—The Restaurants Living Very Much on Patronage—It Is More Fashionable Than American.

[illegible]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10, 1886. Should you happen to attend the opera here some night from the first to the last [illegible] of the month you will find the people in a state of excitement [illegible] cause is the main topic of conversation. The state prestige of the Bonanza kings is [illegible] on the wane. The [illegible] month and brings out a rather [illegible] unusual number of failures. Although [illegible] against the common law [illegible] tickets are openly sold [illegible] are called, and it would seem that every man, woman and child in the town is the possessor of a lottery ticket, a fifth, a half or a whole ticket. The contagion plays the game.

If you socially visit a friend's house, the host or hostess expects you to take interest in you by inspecting the numbers of your lottery ticket and mentioning the prize [illegible] the numbers at their disposal. The boys on the streets all have tickets or sections of tickets, and as a matter of course the day of the drawing is one of unusual excitement. Extras are issued from the newspaper offices giving the numbers of the lucky coupons, the bulletin boards are besieged by each party interested, and the next day colored interviews are published with the winners of any particularly generous sum. All this, to the visitor from abroad, is more than passing strange. To the resident it is an ordinary circumstance of life. Your true San Francisco would as soon go without his dinner as without his lottery coupon, sooner, much sooner, I am sure.

But it must be borne in mind that less than fifty years ago San Francisco was settled by the gamblers, and the spirit of chance they inculcated has not disappeared by any means. Gambling, or, more politely speaking, speculation, is as rampant today as it was in '49. You see it not only in real estate, mining stocks and business enterprises, but it is met in the every day walks of life. Step into a cigar shop to buy a weed, the dice are promptly brought out and the attendant is ready to throw them and see whether you shall pay for two cigars or none. Ride through the streets on a cable car with an acquaintance and he wants to flip a nickel to decide whether you or he shall pay the fare. Women ply the seductive thing called poker as deftly as the men, and skill in "a quiet little game with a small limit" appears, on the coast, to be a national characteristic. However, it is perhaps needless to dilate on this peculiar phase of the modern Californian.

Living in San Francisco is to many a vexed question. In certain respects it is like Paris, either very costly or very cheap. One finds at the most expensive and at the most reasonable city in America in which to reside. Rents are high, wages of servants more than double what they are in the east, and housekeeping is a luxury which the man of moderate means cannot comfortably enjoy. A fifty dollar two story house brings $60 a month, a servant girl will not work for less than $30, and if she is a good cook $20 is her price. The family washing is always done outside and costs about $2 a week. Thus $100 a month is required for rent and wages alone. Living at the leading hotels is also costly, about $4 a day with incidentals added.

Of course, the vast majority of ordinary people cannot afford this mode of life, and the plan generally adopted is expressed by the words "furnished rooms." San Francisco appears to the stranger like a vast lodging house. Turn where you will, "Furnished rooms to rent" meets the eye. In the midst of the business thoroughfares, along the side streets, out on the fashionable residence streets, all over the city and its suburbs rooms are to let for men, women and children. They are to be had at all prices from $1 a week to $100. For instance, I am now occupying a parlor and bed room, with bath room privileges, for $8 a week. In the same building are a score of couples living in a similar way. They pay for their apartments from $5 to $15 a week. Of course, this mode of life is not conducive to morality.

In fact, it offers a premium on promiscuous intercourse, but in San Francisco no one inquires about the private affairs of his neighbor, and the reputation of the city is far from being like unto Cæsar's wife. The rain falls upon the just and the unjust, and the landlady, from the lowest to the highest grade, takes her fee from any respectable appearing couple and "no questions asked." This enormous population existing in lodgings lives at the restaurants which abound in the city. They are of all kinds and conditions—French, English, Italian, German, Spanish and simple American. Meals can be had all the way from ten cents to $2, but the large majority of people favor what is known as the popular saloons, where the service is neat and clean and the food wholesome and well cooked. These immense dining rooms, of which there are several, are unique. We have no thing like them in the east. They appear indigenous to the soil.

When I first saw the bill of fare I assumed it was a place similar to the "cheap and nasty" in London or the students' cafes in the Latin Quarter of Paris, but I took three meals at one of them yesterday, and my experience may be worth relating. Nearly all the dishes are 10 cents each, if you take three it is $5 cents, or two 15 cent dishes and one 10 cent dish [illegible] discount [illegible] all the dishes [illegible] meat [illegible] fish [illegible] vegetables, all kinds. A pint bottle of fine [illegible] white wine is served [illegible] bill of fare [illegible] three meals costing no dishes than $1.

Now the price of the breakfast, as given above, was 25 cents, the lunch 25 cents, the dinner [illegible] 50 cents for the day with [illegible] dishes to choose from. Well, the service was very good, tables and napkins fresh, time [illegible] butter, sugar and condiments of the best, and the dining room neatly furnished and comfortable. The kind of people you meet are well dressed and familiar with their [illegible] the same class to be found daily in any of the higher grade of restaurants in New York city. It seemed to me impossible that this could be done in a city like San Francisco, and after partaking of the three meals mentioned above I asked to see the proprietor. He came, anxious to see if anything was wrong. When I stated my business he smiled and courteously said, "Many from the east are curious to know how it is done, but the answer is easy. Wine, fruit, vegetables and meats are not expensive on the Pacific coast when bought in large quantities. Then, when you feed a great many people and make a trifle on each one, the return is fair. For example, nearly two thousand people a day take their meals here. Say on each we make 3 cents, that is a net profit of $60 a day. If we only fed half that number, expenses would be nearly as great, and we could not live. It is the small profits from a great number that explains the solving problem."

But there is a deeper depth than all this. Throughout the city are cozy little bakeries where coffee and cakes are served for ten cents or cozy bread and butter, with tea or coffee, for fifteen cents. Pies and puddings, pastry and fruits of all kinds are sold for five cents [illegible] and a bowl of hasheesh [illegible] also to be had for a nickel. These retail tenders are not cellar or alley places, but finely fitted up [illegible] on Grant avenue, Kearney street, Market, etc. They are well filled nearly all the time, and are patronized by what are politely termed "nice people." So you see, the term "man coming this way need not go hungry, although I find at least the effort of the average tourist to eat [illegible]

He is ready and willing to cut a splurge. That being the case, there is no city in the land where he can "blow in" his wealth quicker than on this peninsula by the Golden Gate. Speaking of dining, I must say that the Italian restaurants of San Francisco are [illegible] at least that is my experience. The table d'hôte are one dollar and one dollar and a half, and for that a much better dinner should be served than is offered. I have tried the Italian three times within the fortnight, and found the Chianti without bouquet and the spaghetti not cooked with the flavor it seems to possess in the better class of Italian establishments in the east. The French restaurants are an improvement, but unless it be at the clubs one cannot get a really choice meal. Lodgings and hotel fare is accepted as suitable for a jaded appetite or an epicurean palate.

Florence W. Wells.

Stock Market.

NEW YORK, June 18.—Stocks were somewhat less active to day. During the entire day, with the exception of the first and last half hours, there was a decidedly strong tone to the dealings, the consequence being that many stocks to night are materially higher, while a few declines from last evening's figures are small and unimportant. Lackawanna and Oregon Navigation declined 2 per cent each, Jersey Central and Oregon Trans Continental 1¼ each. Northern Pacific preferred 1¼, and common 1 per cent. Government bonds were dull and steady at 8¼ closing at 8¾.

PLUNKETT-WORTHINGTON.

HOW THE ALTRUISTIC THINKS OF THE EGO PRODUCED A DIVORCE.

A Prominent Christian Scientist and Editor Submits to an Interview Regarding His Late Wife Takes Her "Affinity" The Philosophy of It

Christian science has now reached the third stage, as it is shown by the recent action of Mr John J T Plunkett, Mrs Mary H Plunkett and Mr A Bentley Worthington—briefly stated the Plunketts were married years ago, ecclesiastically and legally, and made it so even two last March by signing this document

"We the undersigned, having decided to cease to live together as husband and wife, and desirous of obtaining a divorce both for ourselves and our children, and being unable to agree on a mutual separation, do hereby agree and bind ourselves to the following terms and conditions

"Mary Hodgkins Plunkett to be my wife, provided, with divine assistance, to be unto her a faithful and loving husband forever and forever"

She replied the same words, with the obvious exceptions and so the thing was done. Not quite, however. There was still Mr. Plunkett and a couple of young Plunketts—Pearl, aged 12, and Paul, aged 8—and behind them is the state of New York with great big ideas of statute law and several other obstacles on such affairs as this. Worthington, however, and now the public and the public also want to have their say, and so the history of the parties has been well raked up. Mr. Worthington is thirty years of age, an operator in mines in San Francisco, Bill Nye says, and lives with his wife in California.

The Plunketts were the original "Bohemians" of New York city, founded the school of art at 13 West Forty ... street, and ... The Interior ... of Chicago. She is an artist, and ... of forty, he is thirty ... and ... an artist in the textile art. Their ... pretty. There are at least 100,000 believers in Christian science in the United States, and there in New York and other sections believed Mr. and Mrs. Plunkett as ... Mr. Worthington was ... Mr. Worthington was ... and Mrs. Plunkett's Thinks became Non-Sympathetic, and he wanted to know what was to become of the children and the joint property and his life insurance for $4 000, made out for his wife's benefit. It is, he says, against the rules of the Christian Science to employ lawyers or doctors, and so he was in a dilemma. Mr Worthington gives his answers in these words

"Well, Christian Science is truth and teaches truth. So far it has not attempted the problem of sex—that of marriage, but we are the pioneers in this new field. That is why we fear there may be some among our own people who will not understand us. This is something new We believe it will solve the problem of the failure of marriage Marriage laws as they are are inverse, unjust. Men and women who are not united are tied together. They ought not to be kept in that bondage. There must be some fair method for their divorce. We hope to educate others so that in time this method may be made the method of the law. If the world could comprehend our motives it would not judge us harshly. No, we are not behind our time. Our fear rather is perfect marriage and the marriage of today is not perfect. It is lawful, not God's law."

MRS PLUNKETT.

The Truth has made us free"

When they had mailed copies to their friends and disciples, and received replies of various tones, Mr Worthington stood upon the scene, a few friends were invited and in their presence he stood up with Mary and solemnly pronounced in the presence of God and you my friends here I take Mary Hodgkins Plunkett to be my wife, provided, with divine assistance, to be unto her a faithful and loving husband forever and forever.

She repeated the same words, with the obvious exceptions and so the thing was done. Not quite, however. There was still Mr. Plunkett and a couple of young Plunketts—Pearl, aged 12, and Paul, aged 8—and behind them is the state of New York with great big ideas of statute law and several other obstacles on such affairs as this. COLORADO SPRINGS, June 18, 1899.

To the Editor of the Gazette:

I see there is a proposition or petition before the council for another bridge over Cheyenne creek. For Heaven's sake what is there on the other side of Shook's run that requires so many bridges over it. There are four or five now and more contemplated, while the Monument, a stream that occasionally has water running in it, has but two and they are miles apart. Besides, half of one of the bridges is occupied by the street car company.

In the Dark, Deep Sea.

It has long been known that the daylight does not penetrate for any great distance into the depths of the sea or our lakes. There has been much discrepancy in the results of experiments. A Swiss investigator, M. Asper, has recently combined his results with those of Prof. [illegible] to some [illegible] the penetration of light in the waters of Swiss lakes. [illegible] the experiments in question were somewhat [illegible] rapid gelatine-bromide [illegible] proper protection, [illegible] exposed, exposed for [illegible] and then withdrawn for development. [illegible] The results appear to establish [illegible] that in the Lake [illegible] September the [illegible] at the depth of 170 metres [illegible] the sun as the most perceived of a clear night when there is no moon. Some of experiments carried in the Mediterranean appear to show that in [illegible] of a bright sunlit day perfect darkness is attained at the depth of 300 metres. Thus it is less than 1000 feet we go down to pass below the level which [illegible] sensible influence on the life of the waters contain.

As most of the world is probably more than 10,000 fathoms of a greater depth than 1,000 fathoms, we may assume that in general the [illegible] bottom has to live in utter darkness, a [illegible] as deep as that of [illegible]. As over half the earth's surface is covered by water to a greater depth than 1,000 feet, it follows that more than [illegible] of the earth receive no direct effect from sunlight.

Fashion Notes.

Pink and cream color is a favorite combination for evening dresses.

"Alderney" is the distinctive name of a rich cream that is now in high favor for bridal toilets.

The newest accordion plaited skirts are bordered with many rows of very narrow watered ribbon.

Rich velvet bodices are trimmed with fine gold passementerie, with Empire belts of gold wrought net.

The Greek bonnet is a recent fad for men, and when worn with the Empire gown the effect is decidedly classic.

Among the artistic corsage drapery are the "Martha Washington" kerchiefs which are folded and crossed over the bust after the fashion of a century ago.

Why the Preacher Cried.

One asked a plain brother about a weeping preacher, and inquired: "Why is it that he cries and the congregation do not cry? How is it that he does all the crying?" The old man replied: "If you had to stand there where he stands, and had to talk as long as he has to, and yet had as little to say as he has, you'd cry too."

It is not work that kills men, it is worry. Work is healthful, worry is rust. [illegible] Fear secretes acids, but love and trust are sweet juices.

NONE SO BLIND AS THOSE WHO WILL NOT SEE!

The Only Safe Way to Judge the FUTURE is by the PAST.

Every lot in Colorado Springs has TREBLED in value in the past THREE years. Every lot has increased in value from SIX to FIFTEEN times in the past NINE YEARS. If, in the year 1880, one thousand dollars had been placed at ten per cent, compound interest, it would, in this year, have increased to a value of two thousand dollars. On the other hand, if, in the year 1880, one thousand dollars had been invested in Colorado Springs Property, it would to-day represent a selling value equal to from SIX to FIFTEEN thousand dollars. Which would have been the most sensible and most satisfactory form of investment?

The largest increase has naturally been on property facing on one of the three principal avenues of the city—Cascade, Tejon or Nevada. Any one, with his eyes open, MUST realize that the largest, quickest growth, the best improvements, and the consequent greatest appreciation of values must come in the North End of the city.

EVERY LOT OF THE BEAUTIFUL

NORTH END ADDITION

REACHES ON CASCADE, TEJON OR NEVADA AVENUE.

The Horse Railway traverses the entire tract.

THE CITY WATER IS SUPPLIED TO EVERY LOT.

A number of expensive houses will be built in this addition at once.

Maps have been prepared, giving the location and price of every lot. All marked in PLAIN FIGURES. No deviation in price. A building restriction, carrying with it no obligation to build and no limit as to time, insures the future character of improvements on this ground.

Intending investors are asked to examine the advantages and future prospects of this property.

Rev. A. R. Howbert of Bellefontaine, O., who has recently arrived in this city, is the author of a book entitled "Reminiscences of the War." He was a captain of a regiment during the late war.

Manager Beach states that the second wire of the Colorado telephone company between this city and Denver is completed and now ready for use by the people of Colorado Springs and Manitou.

Police Magistrate Battey had three colored waiters from a restaurant on South Tejon street before him yesterday morning, charged with disturbing the peace. They were assessed $10 each.

The Colorado Springs dramatic company has done something which the majority of novices fail to give attention to, namely, the procuring of good costumes. They have spared no expense to enable them to present Rip Van Winkle correctly in every detail.

Jack Davis, the Colorado City pugilist, who was arrested on Monday upon complaint of the Humane society for beating his wife, was arraigned before Justice Chase yesterday. He was bound over to appear before the next session of the grand jury in the sum of $500, which he failed to find.

The first monthly meeting of the Colorado Springs Amateur Athletic club will be held at Weber hall on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Terms and ticket [illegible] will be discussed. A large attendance is expected, as an attractive programme has been arranged for the evening.

A probably fatal accident occurred to a section hand on the Rio Grande railroad near Manitou last night. About 6 o'clock three of the men who had been employed on the track at that place secured a hand car and started to this city. When rounding a curve not far from the lime kiln the car was struck by a freight engine coming in an opposite direction. Two of the men jumped and were uninjured, but Pat Mulgan, an old man, was caught and thrown against a switch. He received what are believed to be serious internal injuries and may die. He was brought to this city and taken to the hospital. Not [illegible] was [illegible] of Mulgan by his companion, but he is supposed to be an old soldier.

Of Frank A. Robbins' circus, which opens here on the 28th inst., the New York World of last Christmas has the following, [illegible] notice: "The ribald critics [illegible] its is wont to say that the circus [illegible] Barnum's Museum, Noah's Ark, and that there is nothing new in it. While this is generally true, the exception, of course, must [illegible] It [illegible] yesterday afternoon and last [illegible] and expects to exhibit for the rest of the season at the American Institute building, on Third avenue, near Sixty-third street. It is Frank A. Robbins' winter circus, and the first performance was given yesterday as a sort of Christmas eve offering to the little folks. Mr. Robbins is a bold man to establish himself in this city with a permanent circus, for New York has been often and [illegible] victimized by "fake" shows and looks with rather a cold eye on innovations. Robbins was sanguine, however when he began to prepare for the winter campaign, and the performance seems to have justified his faith. One of the features of the show is the dance by eight elephants who furnish their own music. The performance closes with a four horse race [illegible] each ring. It is an interesting show and has an attractive [illegible] for children. There was a fair audience in the afternoon and a better one in the evening, but the people will come eventually, for it is not too much to say perhaps that Robbins [illegible] here to stay. Merry Christmas to you of the circus."

A Runaway Ride.

Last night Miss Myra Judson, a young lady employed in Wilbur & Wolf's dry goods store, this city, but who resides in Colorado City, went out buggy riding with Mr. Frank Watts, of that city. About 9 o'clock while driving along the road to Manitou near Camp Creek the horse became frightened at something and ran away. Both Mr. Watts and Miss Judson were thrown out and the latter was instantly killed. She was picked up and carried into a house near by and Dr. Briscoe of Colorado City was called. He hurried to the house but the unfortunate young lady was past medical aid. Her injuries were in the head. Mr. Watts was not seriously injured. Miss Judson was a sister of Mrs. John Stevens, of Colorado City, and was a very estimable young lady. She has been in the employ of Wilbur & Wolf as bookkeeper since the opening of the store.
